

Infant Newsletter March 2025

We can't believe it's already March! February went by so quickly it seemed. Between the chilly weather, professional development day and fun learning about What Our Bodies Can Do, Love and Hearts for Valentine's Day, Once Upon a Time and Things That Go, we had a busy month! We did some beautiful artwork that we hope you enjoyed seeing displayed in the hallway and classroom, as well as taken some home.

The book fair was a success! Thank you to all of you who contributed by making a purchase that benefited our school and/or bought a book for our classroom. We always appreciate new board books! We have a class full of blossoming avid readers, so the books can get worn out pretty quick. If your child has a favorite board book at home that you would like to get us a copy to have at school, we would love that! We will always take book donations.

Two of our friends have made the transition to toddlers this month. We will miss them, but we are so excited to not only see them grow, but to anticipate the new friends we will get to meet!

We have two birthdays in our class this month! Everett is turning 1 on March 16th and Ms. Mel's birthday is on March 17th! Please be sure to help us wish each of them a very happy birthday. We thank Ms. Mel for all that she does in our classroom for the babies each day.

This month is all about books! We will be exploring books by different popular children's authors and planning lessons around a different book by that author each day. See if you can spot which book was the theme of the day! The themes for the month will be as follows:

March 3: Dr. Seuss

March 10: Eric Carle

March 17: Sandra Boynton

March 21: Our Favorite Classroom Books

We are so looking forward to what we have planned for each of these themes and hope you are too! As always, if you ever have any questions, concerns or thoughts please reach out to us. Thank you for entrusting us with your child. We are so happy you're here.
